

The Fox Who Rescued
The Trapped Monkey

by
Jessie Tekancic

 Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh

Once upon a time there was a fox named Mr. Fox. He was a very wealthy fox. He had a wife named Mrs. Kitty, she is a black cat.

One day Mr. Fox heard a loud scream. "HELP!!!! SAVE ME!" Mr. Fox and Mrs. Kitty were wondering what that noise was. They were very suspicious.

So Mr.Fox went outside to look who or what was screaming. He didnt see anyone, so he went further from his castle into the woods to look.

Mr.Fox saw a poor little monkey trapped into a cage by a- ZEBRA!

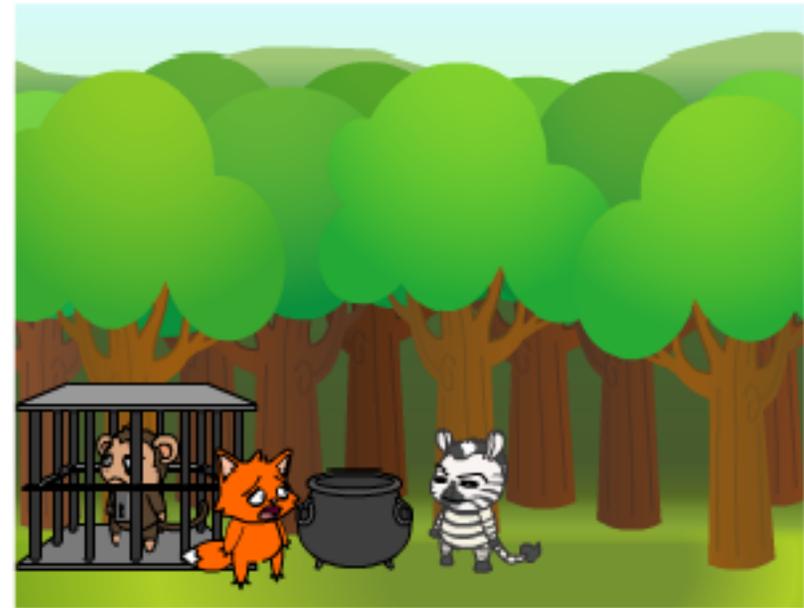

IT looked like the zebra is going to COOK THE MONKEY!! Mr.Fox went further into the woods to save the monkey.

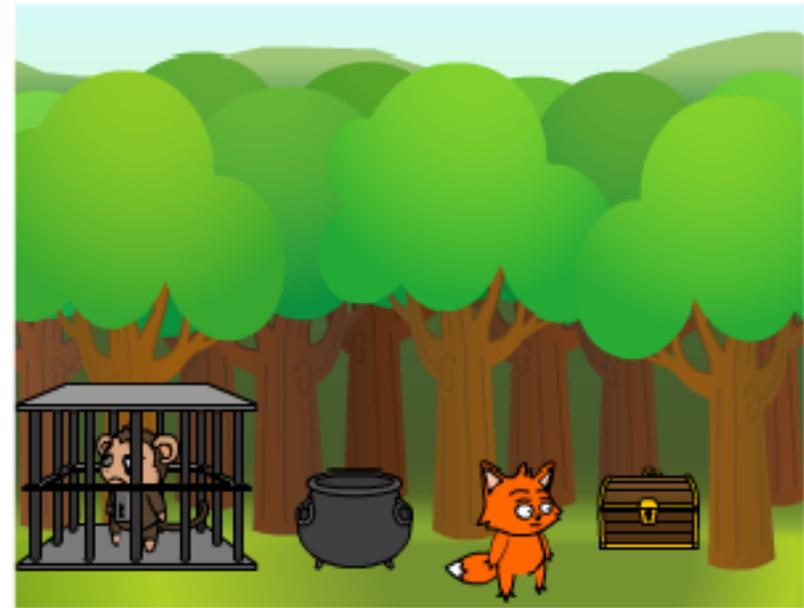

OH NO! Mr.Fox cant let the monkey out because there is a special key to unlock the cage!

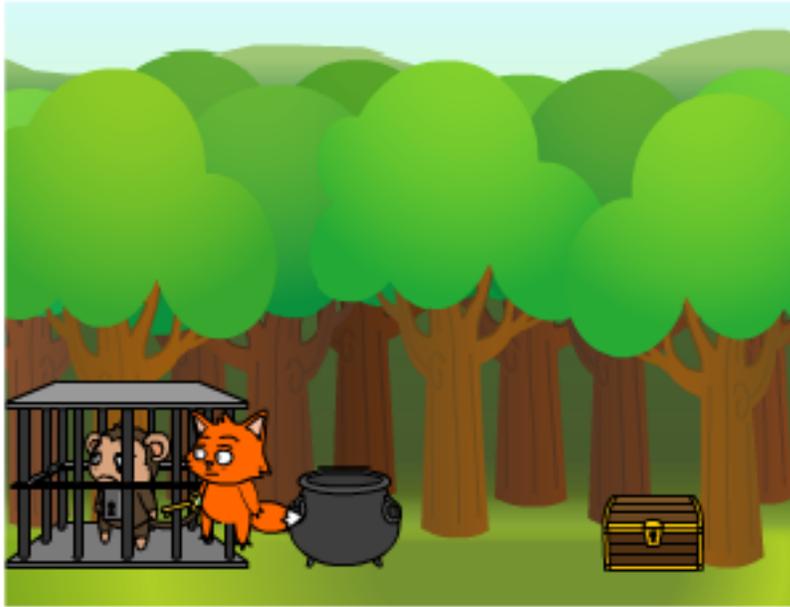

Mr.Fox is very upset that he cant open up the cage for that poor little monkey.....

The mean zebra said:"Now, i will be back, i need ingredients for my spiceal dinner...." "MUAHHHHHHH"

So, when the zebra left, Mr.Fox looked around for that key.

Finally, Mr.Fox found the key!
Mr.Fox is so happy, so he took the key and started to unlock the cage.

Mr.Fox opened the cage! The monkey is now very happy!

Now the monkey and Mr.Fox went back to the castle.

Monkey is now part of their family, as their son, and they lived happily ever after. THE END!!!!

